

Do you need information about the Family Law Courts?

Call the National Enquiry Centre

1300 352 000*

The Family Law Courts' National Enquiry Centre (NEC) is the entry point for all telephone and email enquiries about Family Law Court matters in the Family Court of Australia and the Federal Circuit Court of Australia.

The NEC can assist with:

- information about how to apply to court
- procedural information about your case
- general information about family law
- forms, fact sheets and other publications
- copies of divorce orders, and
- general information and help signing up to the Commonwealth Courts Portal, including eFiling

Although staff are available to assist on a range of matters, they cannot give you legal advice. If you require legal advice, you should contact a lawyer through:

- legal aid
- community legal centre, or
- a private law firm.
